Free Pre-school Places: Information for parents

Note that this factsheet applies to Northern Ireland only. For more information on schemes in other parts of the UK, visit: www.gov.uk/find-free-early-education

In Northern Ireland, children are entitled to a ‘funded’ pre-school place in the year before they start their first year of primary school. These places are funded by the Department of Education and are not compulsory. According to the Department of Education they are intended to build upon the learning that children experience at home and provide a rich variety of challenging play activities and other experiences in a stimulating environment to help prepare children for primary school.

The scheme is intended to provide high quality care and education for children in their final pre-school year (when the child has turned three). Some providers accept applications for children in their penultimate pre-school year (when the child has turned two), but strict admissions criteria apply, giving preference to children in their final pre-school year.

A pre-school place is normally provided across five sessions per week, each lasting 2½ hours per day (part time) or, in some cases, 4½ hours per day (full time), during the school year. Places are provided by nursery schools, primary schools with nursery units and some voluntary and private sector providers. Voluntary and private sector providers can only offer part time sessions. The places cannot be provided by childminders.

The Department of Education’s guidance stipulates that funded pre-school places are not to be regarded as childcare. This factsheet aims to help clarify who is eligible, how to apply, and where to access more information.

Further information about pre-school admissions is available on the Education Authority website: https://www.eani.org.uk/parents/admissions/pre-school-admissions-guide

Who should apply?

Parents of children who are entering their final pre-school year, i.e. have turned three on or before 1 July of the year they are due to start pre-school, are encouraged to apply for a pre-school place. For a pre-school place for the academic year beginning September 2022 the child’s third birthday should fall between 2 July 2021 and 1 July 2022, that is, they were born on or between 2 July 2018 and 1 July 2019.

If you apply for your child who is underage, that is they were born on or between 2 July 2019 and 1 July 2020, they may be admitted but only after target age children are admitted and if funded places remain. For a child who is underage you can only apply to either a nursery school or a nursery unit in a Primary School. Parents of an underage child cannot apply to a voluntary/private playgroup provider participating in the pre-school education programme.

Why should I apply?

Pre-school education is not compulsory, however there is strong evidence to suggest that high quality pre-school education has positive outcomes for children and can contribute to their long-term development, as well as facilitate their transition into primary school.

How do I apply?

You can apply online for admission to pre-school for the 2022/2023 school year on the Education Authority’s website. If you prefer, you can request a hard copy of the application form by calling the Education Authority on 028 9598 5595 or by contacting your selected pre-school setting.

We advise parents to carefully examine the Education Authority Pre-School Admission Guide for 2022, and the admissions criteria which apply to pre-school providers in your area offering funded places. Schools hold a small number of reference booklets containing admissions criteria for parents to view and can also provide hard copy application forms if required.

Step 1:
- Download and read the guide for parents on the Education Authority’s website

Step 2:
- Use your postcode to check the school admissions criteria for each pre-school you are interested in

Step 3:
- Complete the online application form or a paper-based form and return it before the deadline
When should I apply?

Each year, the Department for Education announces when the Parent Portal will open, and when it will close to applicants. In 2022, the online Portal opening date is Monday 10 January and closing date Friday 28 January at 12 noon. There will also be a window of opportunity for parents to send or take supporting documentation to their first preference pre-school provider by Friday 4 February 2022.

The required supporting documentation will include your child’s birth certificate and any other documents as specified by the provider in the published admissions criteria. If you are unsure what is required, contact your first preference pre-school provider to find out what additional documentation they need to process your application.

What if I have missed the closing date?

If your application form is not received by the closing date, it will be treated as late. If your chosen pre-school provider is oversubscribed with applications for children in their final pre-school year, then preference will be given to applications which were received by the closing date, regardless of how your child has met the admissions criteria.

If you are applying for a place for your child’s final pre-school year, and your chosen provider is not oversubscribed, then your application will take preference over any applications received on time for younger children in their penultimate pre-school year.

What are the criteria?

Having your child’s name on a ‘waiting list’ from birth does not guarantee a pre-school place. Settings must adhere to strict admissions criteria, published in the Education Authority’s prospectus. Each provider will have its own set of criteria which may include:

- Children whose parents receive certain means-tested benefits.
- Children whose application lists that particular setting as first preference.
- Children who have siblings who have attended, or have parents employed by the setting (or in the case of nursery units, those who attend or are employed by the adjoining school).
- Children who live nearest to the setting.

For admissions to pre-school settings from September 2013 onwards, the requirement for the pre-school to give priority to children born in July and August has been removed.
The criteria states that places will be allocated on the basis of distance from home to the pre-school. Can I use a friend or family member’s address instead?

No. The Education Authority has identified the practice of “grannying” – supplying incorrect information in relation to the child’s home address in order to advantage an application – and now requires that parents provide proof of the information given on the application form, such as the child’s address and date of birth. You will be advised on what documentation to supply.

When will I find out what pre-school my child has been allocated?

Parents should be able to access the outcome of their pre-school application via the online portal on Thursday 28 April 2022. Pre-schools may also choose to notify parents directly. The Education Authority will notify parents of children yet to secure a place. Parents may submit an appeal if they are not content with the outcome of the application process.
